

HIDDEN FIGURES IN ST. LOUISIS'S AFRICAN AMERICAN HISTORY

DATE:
THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 2019

TIME:
6:30-7:30 P.M.

St. Louis has a rich and enduring African-American legacy, much of which we often aren't aware of, have forgotten, or were never taught about. St. Louis's African-American history is very much inter-twined with the history of our country and involves so many local stories.

Stories and events that include names like: Carter G. Woodson, Elizabeth Keckley, Dred & Harriet Scott, Miles Davis, and many others.

St. Louis has a very unique museum which teaches about these and so many others, and more about our history. It is known as "The Griot Museum of Black History" The term "griot" refers to someone who collects, shares, and preserves the stories and traditions of the community. Join Ms. Gail Delaney from The Griot who will share some of these stories from St. Louis's African-American legacy. You will be able to look at and handle various artifacts, participate in an interactive portion, and hear more about The Griot.
